about an Avenues education

Avenues: The World School is proud to be in your world. Opening in Nanshan in 2019.

No one can predict the future in which our children will live, but we can prepare them with the skills to succeed there. That means a very different approach to education than we've taken in the past. Already, knowledge alone is not what the world's best colleges, universities, and workplaces value most. Instead, they are looking for creative thinkers who can make something new from what they know—new products in business, new applications in technology, new ideas in academia.

This is the kind of education that Avenues: The World School has pioneered in New York City and São Paulo, Brazil, and which we now will bring to Shenzhen. It combines respect for local tradition with a global perspective. Faculty will be a combination of master teachers from China and countries around the world. Students will develop analytical and creative skills, by collaborating with classmates on other continents, both through networked classrooms and study abroad. And Avenues' World Course will encourage them to think through complex questions, not memorize simple answers.

All this will take place at a remarkable, new campus, designed to foster creative thought. We respectfully invite you to visit.

Choosing the Right School for Your Child

Expert Tips from Parents

Would you like to send your child to an international school in China?

Well, here's a cost breakdown for you. Anecdotal research indicates that expat parents living in Mainland China can spend as much as half a million USD in fees alone if they send their children to a solid, reputable international curriculum school from early years to the age of 18. Add in bus services, uniforms, vacations, insurance/medical care, after-school classes and just general expenses (iPads, anyone?), and the total cost of sending your child to such schools is close to USD1 million. And that doesn't even include what you'll spend when they go off to university. How's that for a hole in your pocket?

Though many educational experts generally believe that children do not necessarily have to attend international schools when living outside of their home country, most expat families still follow this trend. After all, who doesn't crave a sense of familiarity for their child when away from home? This begs a couple of very valid questions – what makes a school international and what should you be looking out for when choosing one? Here's what we've gathered from speaking to fellow parents.

Budget

Be realistic. International schools tend to be a commitment, especially if that is the path you have chosen from the onset. Moreover, you should not enroll your child and then drag them out a year later because you can't afford it. Sure, financial issues do occur unexpectedly, but unless you have enough kept aside for at least two or three years of annual fees, it is best to be realistic.

Transferability of Students' Education and Curriculum

You must be sure that the program of study is right for you for when you go back home i.e. transferable. It is very easy to get taken in by beautiful buildings, good marketing spiels and persuasive promises of guaranteed admission to Ivy League schools, but one needs to look beyond that and ask some very important questions such as: is this curriculum accepted back in my home country or my next destination(s)? Does this curriculum allow my child to seamlessly transition? Is the curriculum equipping my child with transdisciplinary and co-curricular skills that can be used regardless of where they go after? Curriculums are often jargon heavy, so it is wise to brush up on your knowledge before you visit so that you are equipped with the knowledge that you need to make the right choice.

The 3 M's: Multinational, Multilingual, Multicultural

We live in a world that transcends boundaries, so it's worth ensuring that a school can instill the '3 M's' in them. In fact, one can sum up their three values as international-mindedness. Schools should teach children to respect their own language and embrace additional ones, and practice multiculturalism and diversity while still appreciating the culture and environment that they thrive in. By always finding ways and strategies to impact their local and wider communities through their intentions and actions, students will build values of responsible citizenship and international-mindedness. Look for evidence as you walk around a school.

Visit All The Schools

Make visits to a number of schools, and not just on their open days. Remember this mantra: every day at school should be an open day. When visiting the campus, ask to observe teachers teaching in classes (and not just in your child's entry level) so you can get a feel for how children are treated across the board. Are children being differentiated? Is the management team confident enough in their staff and students to allow you to speak to them independently? How do the teachers speak about and to their students? What extras are being offered, such as after-school clubs, sports or music? You don't have to be a seasoned educational expert to get a good sense of what is – or isn't – happening on the campus when you visit. Be prepared with your questions (a checklist helps) and don't be afraid to seek help from the parental grapevine as it is usually useful. And just when you think you know it all and are ready to decide, go back again for another visit to reconfirm your choice.

Licensing, Legalities and Health and Safety

In addition to doing your own research (both offline and online) and due diligence, look for evidence that schools are stable. Is there a strong management/governance team and an independent board? Is it a profit or non-profit institution? Are the school's finances in order? Are they legally allowed to operate? Do teachers have relevant qualifications and training, as well as valid work visas pertaining to their job descriptions and titles? Does the school have a full-time nurse onsite? Do they adhere to health and safety, and child protection policies? Is their kitchen safe, hygienic and health-conscious? These are some things to look out for and to ask. A school with its ducks in a row has nothing, or no one, to fear from.

Accreditations, Affiliations and Memberships

When it comes to accreditations and affiliations, do you know what those signs or letters signify? Ask for explanations when you visit, as these are noteworthy stamps show parents that a school has met and is still meeting and maintaining a high level of globally-recognized standards set by an independent accrediting agency. A feather in a (school's) cap is membership. For example, many schools in China are members of the Association of China and Mongolia International Schools (ACAMIS), giving students as well as teachers access to cultural, enrichment, sporting and development activities.

Gut Instinct

The most important criteria of all is what you feel when you enter a school. It's an innate knowing, one that cannot be explained but only felt. You should feel genuinely welcomed and respected and feel that this is where your child will learn, thrive and develop. At the end of the day, when you know yourself and your child's needs, what people say about a school, what a building looks like or what the school is named (yes, look beneath the labels and fancy exteriors) should not matter. Trust yourself and your gut instinct to make the right choice. After all, this will be one of the most important decisions that you will ever have to make on your child's behalf.

Paving Your Path to the Future

School Leaving Qualifications

Every year, students in their last year of school are faced with a decision: where are they going to spread their wings in terms of further education? Oh, the fear!

Worrying about the best path to university is inevitable. For many students, the task is made easier if they are studying in their home country. But in a cross-curricula region like ours where schools offer various school leaving qualifications, making a choice is not quite as simple. Even some of our brightest young people (and parents) need help to choose a framework or a curriculum that offers the best fit and most matches their needs. To do this, prospective university applicants must start early on to choose a school and an educational model that does not disrupt the culmination of their scholastic journey. For those in international schools, common pathways include the International Baccalaureate (IB), A-Levels and Advanced Placement. The SAT is usually done in addition.

Experts do point out that generally, all school leaving qualifications offer students plenty of opportunities for breadth and/or depth of future study, depending on preference or country. That being said, it is all about your child and the right fit. Remember, what works for someone else may not work for you. For those seeking clarity on school leaving qualifications, here are some of the most popular options offered by both bilingual and international schools in the region.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

The IB was introduced in the late 1960's by the International Baccalaureate Organization. Founded in Geneva, Switzerland, it was set up to cater to the growing numbers of internationally mobile young adults who wanted an education that was not tied to any national government's agenda. There are many IB schools in the GBA, and this is an extremely popular course to undertake as universities find it comprehensive. The course leads to a qualification called the IB Diploma. Students pick one subject from each of the six core groups: language and literature (normally a student's mother tongue), language acquisition (normally a second language), sciences, mathematics, arts, and individuals and societies.

In addition, they take a course in the theory of knowledge (TOK), write an extended essay (EE) of 4,000 words and participate in creativity, action, service (CAS) – a non-examined module that focuses on imagination, sport and community outreach. The IB Diploma is very international in its philosophy and aims, and the curriculum requires balance and research. Grading at the end comes down to a numerical score: marks out of seven for each subject and three possible additional points for the combined TOK and EE, for a maximum of 45 points. Students are also required to elect between three or four of their subjects as higher level (HL) disciplines, with the remainder as standard level (SL).

A-Levels

An A-Level, more formally called a General Certificate of Education (GCE) Advanced Level, has changed noticeably in the last few years. In 2015, the government announced that changes would be made to how AS and A-Levels are marked. The changes mean that AS-Levels (which are exams taken in the first year in Year 12/Grade 11) can stand as a separate qualification but not if they choose to finish a full A-Level in the subject. Rather, they will have to sit more exams at the end of Year 13/Grade 12 if they want an A-Level in a particular subject.

A-Levels are widely accepted by universities around the world, although they are most common in the United Kingdom. Unlike other syllabi where there are a number of compulsory subjects, students are free to choose whichever fields of study they like. The A-Level program thus offers depth and specialization, allowing the linguistically challenged to drop languages and the creatively talented to solely undertake arts. The flexibility of the A-Level system also allows for change and pliability. Exams are graded on a scale of A*-E, with U as Unclassified (fail). AS Level grades (i.e. subjects taken for one year) and final A-Level grades are translated into points or a score that universities look at. Entry into a course dependent on its popularity, the university's reputation and the standard of grades required.

Advanced Placement (AP)

The AP program, created by the College Board, allows students to pursue university-level studies while in secondary school for one year.

It consists of a sequence of coursework in a specific subject; there are more than 30 courses and exams across multiple realms of knowledge. The examinations are scored on a five-point scale, with five being the highest mark attainable.

Good scores in AP coursework indicate that a student has achieved a recognized standard in that subject, allowing them to skip the corresponding module as a freshman in college. AP scores are accepted by most institutions around America and in a further 80 countries worldwide. Many schools in the GBA offer the AP in addition to another very popular test called the SAT.

SAT

SAT, also created by the College Board, is a standardized benchmark assessment of core skills. The idea is to provide universities, especially those in America, with one common criterion that can be used to compare all applicants. Students often take these tests in addition to the IB, A-Levels or high school subjects. They are offered a number of times each year, either at schools or external center, and is chargeable. Tests last for three hours or three hours and 50 minutes (with an essay). There are three SAT sections: mathematics, critical reading and writing. Scores range from 400 to 1,600 points, combining test results from the two 800-point sections: mathematics and critical reading/writing. SAT scores are usually considered together with high school grades, letters of recommendation, interviews and personal essays.

Other National Curriculums

These are usually national curriculums that are offered in home countries and extended to schools here in China under partnership agreements. Examples include the Victorian Certificate of Education (VCE), the Alberta Diploma, US Common Core and others.

Qualifications for 14-16-year-old Students

There are several options for students aged 14-16, who want alternative routes to further education or to progress to school leaving qualifications such as the IB or A-Levels. Many schools offer examinations and/or external moderation such as Cambridge International General Certificate of Secondary Education (IGCSE), Singapore-Cambridge General Certificate of Education Ordinary Level (GCE O-Levels) or Middle Years Program (MYP).

The Business of Play

Children and Play in Early Childhood

What are your memories of playing as a child? Some of us will remember hide and seek, house or tag. Others may recall arguing about rules in ball games, taking turns at jump rope or hopscotch, creating imaginary worlds with our dolls, building human forts or dressing up in Mum's high heels. In fact, many of us were born in a generation where apples and blackberries were still just fruits and where androids were actually robots with human appearances.

But, what about your children? Are their opportunities for play the same as you had? Most likely not. Playtime, as it appears these days, is in short supply for children, even though the lifelong benefits it garners can be more valuable than many parents often realize. Scientists and educators who study and observe play in action have reached a consensus that recreational activities are more than a way for restless kids to work off steam; more than a method for kids to burn off calories; more than a frivolous luxury. Play, in their expert view, is a central part of neurological growth and development, and an important way that children build complex, skilled, responsive, socially adept and cognitively flexible brains. They believe that a true sense of interpersonal nuance can be achieved only by a child who is engaging all five senses by playing in the three-dimensional world. One popular reason why indulging in youthful escapades is regarded as essential is the play-as-preparation premise. In this theory, play evolved because it is good training for adulthood. It is a chance for young ones to learn and rehearse the skills they will need for the rest of their lives in a secure environment, where mistakes will have few consequences. Proponents of this hypothesis say play is a pleasurable way of gaining muscle memory of the generalized movements of survival, such as chasing, running, probing and tussling. Through play, these movements can be learned when the stakes are low and then retrieved in adulthood, when the setting is less safe and the need more urgent. The play-as-preparation hypothesis seems logical, and each new observation appears to confirm the imitation of our big, real world. Watch two-year-olds playing at a toy workbench with little wooden mallets and blocks and you can picture them as adults employing those same motions to wield a full-size hammer.

Play is the lifeblood of childhood and the learning process, whether it is open-ended art, cut-and-color discovery, music and movement, sensory activities with sand, water or bubbles. Indeed, the preschool/kindergarten years are a time when children develop confidence, more effective control over their emotions, new social skills, the foundations of morality and a clear sense of themselves as a boy or girl. The real business of childhood, therefore, is as clear cut and simple as it can be: idle, creative, unstructured free play.

Five Things to Look for When Choosing a Kindergarten or Preschool For Your Child

It goes without saying that a good kindergarten must be safe and hygienic, employ professionally qualified and trained teachers, focus on holistic development of children and adopt an all-round, inclusive curriculum. But what are some things that you can also look out for, when making a visit? Here are our five tell-tale things to look for.

- A combination of formal (teacher-initiated) and informal (child-initiated) activities
- Play-based, hands-on learning in small groups
- Books, words and kids' own work and writing all over the classroom and around the school
- Confident, happy students that are smiling and collaborating with each other
- Laughter and expressions of joy, excitement and mutual respect.

Remember that you will not always find exactly what you want but it should come close enough. And most importantly, you and your child must always feel welcome, respected and happy to be at school.

The Case for Bilingualism

The Benefits of Language Learning

Experts in the field of linguistics can all agree on one thing: birth up to the end of primary school is the best time in which to learn a second, or even a third, language.

There are some 6,800 spoken tongues in the world. Since babies have no idea where they will be born or what they will be exposed to, they are dependent on their parents to provide enough stimuli to ensure they can communicate. That talent to absorb, however, fades fast.

Jeffrey Kluger, a science and technology editor, wrote a brilliant, thought-provoking article in 2013 about babies and the field of linguistics and neurology. He proclaimed that during the first few months of a baby's life, its brain builds a large number of important connections – up to a billion a second. By the age of about eight months, that number can reach up to 1,000 trillion, but then they start to decline precipitously unless the child is exposed to stimulation. By the age of 10, they have reduced by half to approximately 500 trillion. It is during this period of time that the foundation for vision, language, thinking, attitudes, aptitudes and other characteristics are established.

The early years is deemed as a critical period of growth and development and at this time, the brain is like a sponge. Once development is complete, the window closes and any further learning has to be gained through long and hard traditional methods.

This primary assumption goes back to the basis of research conducted by Eric Lenneberg, one of the pioneers in the contemporary field of the biology of language. Other studies have shown that children who learn a language before the onset of adolescence are much more likely to have native pronunciation. Tests carried out during the last few decades have shown that a multilingual brain is quicker and better able to deal with ambiguities, resolve conflicts and resist diseases and other forms of dementia. Those who could speak more than just their mother tongue were found to have a larger density of grey matter, the part of the brain which is responsible for processing information, including memory, speech and sensory perception. Those who had been exposed to a secondary or tertiary language from an early age proved to have the most grey matter.

With the enhancement in overall mental development, learning languages opens doors for all learning, and the result is increased skills, self-esteem, thinking and reasoning skills and math ability, in addition to learning how to read earlier. Moreover, mastering another language means coming to know a different conception and structuring of the world.

All of the above is not new information. At many international schools in China, most students take timetabled Chinese language lessons that last from about 40 minutes to an hour, three to four times a week, with some offering options for a third language such as French, German, Spanish, Japanese and even Arabic and Russian. The language of instruction, however, is still essentially English. The immense growth of true dual language immersion (bilingual) schools in this region is also a testament to these benefits, where an equal emphasis is placed on both Mandarin and English for kids as young as pre-kindergarteners.

With plenty of educational, linguistic and neuroscientific research supporting bilingual immersion programs, there is no wonder that such schools have recently mushroomed around the country. Bilingual schools can be found all around the Greater Bay Area, offering blended curriculums that are extremely attractive to families. Given the plethora of educational choices that we currently have, it is our hope that our children naturally develop an awareness and appreciation of the rich, lyrical and diverse experience of living and growing in a cultural environment like China. As adults, we are keenly aware of the headaches associated with studying languages later in life, making it common sense to vastly encourage a bilingual – or even a multilingual – education for children as early as possible.

BILINGUAL SCHOOLS

Since opening its first campus in New York in 2012, Avenues has established itself as a new kind of school – a World School with campuses in great cities on multiple continents. Through the pursuit of its mission and an innovative interdisciplinary curriculum, Avenues prepares students to be future world-wise leaders uniquely equipped to understand and solve global-scale problems. After the successful launch of Avenues São Paulo in 2018, the organization is now preparing to open its first campus in China in fall 2019 in the city of Shenzhen. Avenues Shenzhen will initially serve children from the ages of 2 to 6, with plans to expand to serve primary and secondary divisions in coming years.

All Avenues campuses are part of a highly integrated and global learning community, connected and supported by a common vision, a shared curriculum, the same admissions standards, collective professional development of its faculty and best-in-class facilities. Avenues' global admissions policy means that a student admitted to one Avenues campus is automatically admitted to all of them: New York, São Paulo, Shenzhen and Online. This allows families with professional commitments in Brazil, China or with Avenues Online – anywhere else to provide their children with a seamlessly integrated education on three continents.

Avenues is committed to advancing education worldwide – not just within the walls of its campuses. As a New School of Thought, Avenues seeks to redefine schooling by developing, testing and implementing new practices that result in better outcomes for students. With its own dedicated research and development team based at Avenues headquarters in New York, Avenues is envisioning – and creating – the future of education, one discovery at a time. Innovative programs developed by Avenues R&D team include High Intensity Practice (focused writing and maths practice to sharpen the brain's executive functions), the Avenues World Elements (a unique, modular global curricular system) and the Avenues Mastery Academy (an intensive live-learn experience based in which students complete a project based on the unique conditions of a particular global city).

Avenues: The World School, Shenzhen Campus

Avenues: The World School is one school with many campuses, serving children from ages 2-18 in the world's leading cities, including New York, São Paulo (Brazil) and now, Shenzhen. Its state-of-the-art Shenzhen campus is planned to open in Nanshan District in fall 2019, serving children from the ages of 2-6, with plans to expand to serve primary and secondary divisions in coming years. Avenues' innovative early childhood program is based on language immersion in English, interdisciplinary studies, learning through play and a unique global humanities program – and will be brought to life in Shenzhen by a team of passionate, experienced and highly-qualified educators.

教育理念

EDUCATIONAL INSIGHTS

许多父母在搬到一个新的城市或为孩子转学都遇到了许多问题。如何选择合适的学校？甲级考试，大学先修课程，国际文凭还是其他？一个孩子能同时学习两种或三种语言吗？在下面的页面中，您将获得一些相关信息，这些信息可能有助于解答您其中一些问题。

如何在教育孩子时平衡文化差异

俗话说得好，人与人的区别比人和猪的区别都大。在教育孩子时，即使父母双方的文化背景基本相似，有时也会对对方的做法颇有微词，那假如两者的文化大相径庭呢？

文化是由多方面因素所共同组成的，包括传统、习俗、语言、信仰等等。同时，这些因素也决定了一个人的行为方式、宗教信仰和世界观。在理解了这一点以后，就不难发现假如父母双方的文化背景天差地别的话，会给教育孩子这件事带来多大的困难。当然，遇到困难，逃避自然是不行的，毕竟逃避不仅可耻而且也没用。最关键的还是在于如何去面对。

Dr. Balfanz 作为心理健康专家，他经常会遭遇文化背景截然不同的夫妇，处理他们提出的教育孩子方面各种各样的问题。事实上，Dr. Balfanz 自己本身也是跨国婚姻。接下来，就让我们听听他对此是怎么看的，以及有何妙招来缓解可能存在的冲突与争端。

专家有话说

资深跨文化教育专家、来自美国国家儿童健康与教育研究院的 Marc Bornstein 博士曾在其著作当中写道：

“人们总是强调人与人之间的差异，却往往忽视了，不论文化背景如何，几乎所有的父母最根本的诉求就是希望能给自己的孩子提供一个快乐、健康、完满的成长环境。”要想达成这个目标，父母不能只考虑自己小时候的成长经历，然后照本宣科地强加在自己孩子身上，而是要意识到并且充分理解当代的教育环境。他说：“不论家长还是孩子，在接收文化信息的时候，不能照单全收，而是要有意识地进行筛选，这样才能确保自己具备文化竞争力。”换句话说，虽然在教育孩子时，要给予彼此的文化传统足够的尊重，但更重要的还是要审视这些老传统与孩子现在的成长环境是否还契合。”

平衡文化差异的三点建议

1. 加强对自身文化背景的了解与认知。家长们可以花上点时间好好思考一下文化背景对自己的成长究竟起了什么作用。哪些因素对你的童年产生了积极的影响。同时也别忘了和你的爱人一起商讨，哪些因素可以应用到对孩子的教育方针中来。

2. 保持一定的底线。这年头，似乎每个人都可以是教育专家。只要给他们一个舞台，他们就能就自己对教育的见解与建议发表一番长篇大论。当然，我们对这些爷爷奶奶、叔叔阿姨、老师朋友以及毫不相干的陌生人所提出的妙招或是建议心怀感激。但归根结底，只有父母自己才有权决定怎样抚养孩子最为合适。

3. 注重培养孩子独特的文化认知。对于孩子来说，成长过程中最纠结的点莫过于如何发展出属于自己的文化认知。关键还是在于家长，除了植根于父母双方的文化背景之外，也要满足现代的教育环境。

择校最重要的指标是什么？ 一定是课程！

当我们在择校的时候，我们一定会去听一听校长的教育理念，去了解这所学校的历史，但是这些就是最重要的了吗？当然不是！就像在餐厅点餐时你不会只关注厨师而会关注菜单，一所学校最重要的就是它们提供的课程。

通过对于课程的了解，我们可以知道这所学校对学生的要求是什么，了解如何达到这个目标，更重要的是，它会告诉我们，这个学校期许学生在未来成为怎样的一个人。在过去这几年中，有很多学校已经放弃了“树人”这个概念，而是追求教给孩子技能，这样反而会让它们停止思考，甚至不了解自己生活的世界。

但是幸好，这些年来教育界重新关注“素质教育”，越来越多的学校采取严格而丰富的课程，从而确保学生能够真正了解他们为什么要学习以及如何取得好成绩。

那么，我们应该要如何来辨别这所学校是否是一所适合孩子的高质量学校呢？你可以问问校长这些问题，也问问自己这些问题，或许你可以获得答案。

能否给孩子带来创造力

只有你了解基础的音阶结构，你才有可能成为一个音乐家，所以知识是发展创造力的根本基础，只有当孩子知道一些东西后才能够去批判它、改进它，所以创造力的第一步就是知识。

校长应该与你分享，他们的老师将会如何将只是传递给孩子，以及为什么他们要这么做，这背后有一个怎样的概念基础。

比如，在三四年级时，孩子就会开始学习历史、地理、政治等科目，他们首先需要了解这些学科的基础知识，才能去探讨：为什么每一天太阳升起的时间不同；秦始皇如何一统中国……这样的提问，便是去引导孩子思考，让他们去生产自己的思想。

孩子应该课外阅读些什么

除了在课堂上的知识获取，我们可以了解家长应该和孩子一起做什么来提高。首先，我们要知道，类似于火山模型之类的动手活动，最后可能都是家长单独完成，这并不会给孩子带来什么只是。

但是，家长也可以通过阅读拓展孩子的知识，一些科学类的文章，或者一些故事书、杂志，都是不错的选择，而这也是我们可以询问校长的关键，通过看他给出的阅读推荐清单，我们可以知道这所学校期盼从什么方面学习发展。同时，学校也应该成为孩子坚持阅读的关键动因，如何教会孩子阅读并且让他能够坚持，这就是关键。

对于低年级学生的规定

一个学校对于孩子的目标，可以在低年级孩子的规定中体现，看看他们如何帮助年纪小的孩子克服一些困难、建立自己的恒心，这可以说是非常重要了。

如果校长对不同的孩子谈论不同的方法，那么就要小心了，因为一所学校应该做的并不是让优秀的同学更好地发展，让有困难的同学单独解决，而是应该提早发现问题并且进行干预，并且帮助他们赶上大部队。

这些问题并不是全部，但是却告诉了家长们一个事实，在择校时一定要对学校的各方面设置都多多留心，尤其是课程。

双语课程，怎样赢在起点？

到了不得不为孩子的教育做打算之时，父母的择校计划显得尤为重要：私立学校、寄宿学校、公办学校、家庭学校，到底该如何抉择？

双语课程如今在美国境内广受欢迎，这一课程的益处远不止学习另一门语言，孩子的文化意识、听力水平、创造性思维及分析能力都会因此而得以锻炼。

“参与沉浸式教学项目的学生可能起初在标准化考试中表现得并不尽如人意，但一般情况下他们的成绩都会在 level-3 左右，课程结束时，孩子的成绩会达到 level-5 以上”。双语教育人士、《多元的声音》作者拉里·雷米雷斯如是说。

要想孩子在双语课程中取得成绩，父母的参与极其重要。下文中的这位美国母亲提供了许多可行的建议，一起去看看她是怎么让孩子赢在起点呢？

告诉自己：注册的不仅是孩子，还有你！

高效的双语课程能够营造一个包容的校园环境，父母、老师和孩子们能够同时参与其中。比如在女儿返校前夜，老师给了一个呈三角形的图表，三角形的每个角上都写着不同的内容。

注册之前家长就清楚，这项课程一定会要求家长的参与，但家长最初对于“家长参与”的认知却仅仅停留在传统教育环境对此的要求上。一句熟悉的话忽然浮现在脑海中：“培养一个孩子，必须要动用整个村子的力量才可”。

内布拉斯加州大学外国语及心理学系的博士小组通过研究表明：“如果父母在这一项目中的角色由参与者变成领导者，那么孩子很有可能获得更大的收获”。在课堂上踊跃发言，加入“家庭教师协会”，让学校职能在你这里也能够得到完美的实现，充分展现自己对校园文化的热情，这样也能够鼓励孩子参与其中。

（给老师）传递纸条

部分双语学校在校前几年会采用示范教学法。低年级教师在课堂上会为学生做示范，课堂上也只用二外进行教学（就我女儿的情况而言就是西班牙语），这一方法能够让学生在短时间内就可以达到可以与教师对话的水平。

作为补充的语言，尤其是英语，是由另外一名教师进行教授的。起初，和教授西班牙语的教师进行交流十分困难，这也是开始去上女儿的课之后我才意识到的问题。遇到问题时，老师不愿当学生的面讲英语，于是就给我写纸条指导我。教室里的灯熄灭之后，我又将我的纸条传递给她。对作业有疑问时，我也会给老师写纸条。

但是这个方法在孩子学会写字之后就不能够再继续使用。那个时候，邮件就成了你的忠实好友。当然，到了那个阶段，你的语言能力也许早已足够应付面对面的交流了。

想方设法让此成为你生活的一部分

通过孩子的作业偷偷地学习新的词汇能够帮助你将语言学习变成生活中的一部分。双语教育家、享誉国际的博卡·贝丝语言学习项目创始人贝丝·巴特勒说：“在日常生活编织你的西班牙语词汇网，对孩子语言能力的提高十分有益”，“如果想起一个英语词汇，强烈建议这时用西班牙语来表达它”。

让学习变成乐趣

掌握一门技术会让变得游刃有余。一位澳大利亚母亲，同时也是一名经过认证的 ESL 教师和 kidspot 博主考特莱·博菲格丽奥为单语种目前提供了切实可行的建议：“学会使用谷歌，下载 App，看优质的西班牙语电视节目，就能够把语言学习变成生活中的乐趣。”女儿一年级时，我们发现她在识字方面与同班同学存

在明显的差距。我们利用晚上时间练习认字，但她仍旧表现得很吃力。我把我的烦恼和沮丧向她的老师倾诉，老师建议我用视觉词去和孩子玩填字游戏，因为这一游戏能够帮助孩子把发音和它的词形联系起来。

关注课程成效

让孩子理解并且欣赏双语课程的益处，这一点至关重要。找机会对孩子所学内容进行强化。当你和孩子在公共场合时，让她去发现另一门语言的用处。这是用另外一种语言帮助他们的方法吗？掌握了除英语之外的另外一门语言，是不是有机会交到更多的朋友呢？

如果你告诉孩子，你已经花钱为她注册了这一课程，那么孩子一定会对自己的学习更加上心，告诉你她也在为自己未来教育进行着投资。

双语学校 BILINGUAL SCHOOLS

自 2012 年在纽约建立第一个校区以来，爱文世界学校以创新著称，建立了别具特色的“一所学校，多个校区”体系，跨越大洲开设多个校区。爱文带着使命而来，设计出高度创新、跨学科的课程体系，让学生能够成长为未来世界的领导者，理解并应对全球层面的问题。2018 年，爱文的巴西圣保罗校区成功开办。如今，爱文又在准备建立它的首个中国校区——爱文深圳校区预计将于 2019 年秋季迎来第一批 2 到 5 岁的幼儿园学员，未来还将拓展为幼儿园至 K12 年级的一贯制学校。

爱文各个校区构成同一个紧密相连的全球教育体系，拥有共同的愿景、共享的课程体系、一致的招生标准、一体化的教师发展培训系统，也共同分享最先进的教学设施。在录取系统上，学生一旦被一个校区录取，也就自动同时被爱文的所有校区录取，在纽约、圣保罗、深圳、在线校区，以及未来预计建立的所有校区之间转换自如。这意味着需要在美国、巴西、中国、全球各地旅行或移居的家庭，在前往不同大洲时仍能够为孩子提供无缝衔接、高度整合的教育。

爱文致力于在世界范围内推进教育，这种努力超越校园的界限。作为教育思想的引领者，爱文发展并试验教育手段、建立新型教育设施，以此重新定义教育，促进学生发展。在纽约总部，爱文设有独具一格的研发部门，这令爱文能够一步步探索并创造教育的未来。爱文研发部门设计出一系列创新教育项目：“高强度训练”能通过写作和数学练习充分开发学生大脑，”世界元素”是一套形式独特、有如化学元素周期表的全球课程体系，而“大师学院”则让学生前往全球各大城市生活并深入学习，在当地完成具有地方特色的学习和研究项目。

爱文世界学校 深圳校区

爱文世界学校实行“一所学校，多个校区”制度，在全球主要城市招收 2 岁至 18 岁的学生。爱文已建立的校区包括美国纽约，巴西的圣保罗，如今又拓展到深圳。爱文深圳校区位于南山区，具有全球顶尖水准，预计于 2019 年秋季迎来第一批 2 岁至 5 岁的幼儿园学员，未来还将建立包括小学及中学的一贯制学校。爱文幼儿园实行创新教育，设计出特有的“沉浸式”中英双语学习、跨学科及项目式学习方法、“边玩边学”、以及具有全球视野的人文项目“世界课程”。爱文将以有教育热情、丰富经验、深厚资历的一流师资队伍，在深圳实现世界水平的教育。
